Project Overview

- Title: Final Assignment – Bloody Mary Makeup
  - Introduction:

This project is part of a semester-end assignment. It involves creating a marketing makeup webpage designed to provide tips, tricks, and services to other businesses.

Project Requirements

- Features List:

The webpage includes the following elements:

Homepage:

1. A picture slider to add dynamic visuals to the page.
2. A navigation bar with a hamburger menu (responsive on mobile screens).
3. Decorative cards that serve primarily as visual elements. These were initially intended to link to other pages, such as an Instagram account or Facebook.
4. A quiz implemented using if, else if, and else statements. It's a unique, non-popup quiz experience.
5. Tab buttons (miswritten as "tag" in some instances).
6. Video content to enhance user engagement.

About Page:

7. A text box within a flex container.
8. Accordions containing text for easy content expansion and collapse.

Connect Page:

A form featuring:

- Email subscription functionality.
- Contact submission options.
- Technology Stack:

The project utilizes the following tools and technologies:

HTML:

- 3 HTML files:
  1. Home.index
  2. About.index
  3. Connect.index

CSS:

- 1 CSS file:
  1. Style.css

JavaScript:

- 3 JavaScript files:
  1. script.js
  2. about.js
  3. connect.js

Design and Planning

- Wireframes or Mockups:

I faced issues using Figma for this project. Despite spending significant time troubleshooting, I was unable to resolve the problems. Instead, I created a basic layout draft using Canva, though time constraints limited its development.

Development Process

- Challenges:

1. Navigation Bar:

I encountered difficulties making the navigation bar responsive for mobile screens. This consumed a significant amount of time and delayed other tasks. I also struggled with saving progress due to insufficient version control.

2. JavaScript:

I faced several issues related to ID and class misspellings in JavaScript files.

3. CSS:

My attempt to separate the CSS into multiple files caused some content to disappear. Due to time constraints, I commented out the problematic sections to maintain functionality.

4. Quiz Functionality:

The quiz implementation was delayed due to a class misspelling, which took considerable time to debug and resolve.

Testing

- How You Tested:

Testing was primarily done through the browser console using `console.log()` to manually verify if data, such as names or emails, was correctly logged. I also used live previews for visual verification.

- Bug Fixes:

While I attempted to fix several bugs, some had minimal impact on browser functionality, so I prioritized resolving the most significant issues.

---

Final Product

- Screenshots:

[Include screenshots of the project here.]

- How to Use:

1. Begin by taking a quiz to determine your skin type. This feature is designed for aesthetic and entertainment purposes.
2. Click the "Tips" button to toggle a section containing makeup tips and tricks. Clicking it again hides the content.
3. Clicking "Makeup Tutorials" hides the "Tips" section and displays AI-generated tutorial videos, catering to personal or business needs.
4. On the About page, clicking arrows or banners reveals sections of text.
5. On the Connect page, users can subscribe via email to receive updates or fill out a form to request contact from a professional.

- What You Learned and Future Improvements:

I learned that better planning could significantly improve outcomes. With proper prioritization, I could have completed more within the given timeframe. While I absorbed a lot of information quickly, I now feel more confident writing and understanding code.

Future improvements include practicing more with planning tools like GitHub and Figma. I underestimated the complexity of these tools and aim to improve my proficiency in them.
